Marble

When kings and queens alighted on floors, sparkling white, with shimmering light, the world recognised marble in its true worth. Even Shah Jahan couldn't resist the charm of marble as he build the Taj Mahal, a mausoleum for his wife.

Over the years, marble has been refined and is now available in innumerable shades to suit the needs of modern construction. Marble is suitable for entryways, fireplaces, bathrooms and living areas. Marble floor tiles are used for both interior and exterior flooring applications.

To be maintained with pride, marble floorings have elegant finishes with characteristic patterns that are one of a kind.

Limestone

Limestone has long been used as a flooring solution. Natural limestone underfoot has a luxurious look and feel.

Limestone is used as tiles for floorings, wall cladding and vanity tops. It is also popularly used for flooring commercial spaces like airports, shopping malls, hospital corridors, railways stations etc.

The muted tones of limestone are perfect for today's more casual and comfortable lifestyles. Generally soft beige and tans, either polished or honed are appropriate for bathrooms, fireplaces, counters and less-travelled flooring where a more informal decor is desired.

Granite & Quartzite

If you are looking for a natural stone with great strength, good looks and an elegant finish, then granite & quartzite are the stones you should opt for. Granite & Quartzite have great structural benefits as it is one of the hardest substances available and is often used in foundations, floors and walls. They are widely acknowledged for their aesthetic value and are a right fit for any residential, light commercial or even an industrial project.

Granite and quartzite remain popular surface choice in new age constructions due to their durability and overall pleasing beauty. Fine grained granite is used for ornamental and monumental work, as well as for inscription purposes. They are ideal for fabricating counter tops, floorings, staircases, vanities and exterior landscaping. They are a maintenance free stone and can withstand years of use.

Granite & quartzite are hard igneous rock and chiefly comprise of mica, quartz and feldspar and a wide variety of minerals which give them different patterns and a wide variety of colours.

Travertines

If you are looking to bring an earthly feeling into your space, then travertino is the stone you need. Over the years travertine has been favoured as a flooring solution due to its relatively easier maintenance and reasonable price.

Travertino has been a famous stone for centuries, with some of the most famous quarries being in Tivoli and Montecelio in Italy. It has huge architectural significance as it was the stone used to build the St. Peter's Square in Rome and also St. Peter's Basilica.

In modern architecture, Travertino is being used as tiles of varied sizes to do a multiple tile patterns. It is a great stone for doing walls, floors, bathrooms and kitchen. The multiple tiles give the space a different character from coloured stones.

Semi Precious

Glittering jewellery catches the eye of every viewer. What if you were to adorn your walls with something so tantalizing that every person walking in would be mesmerised by it like a work of art?

It is a perfect option for a beautiful back lit set up next to your swimming pool, your vanity mirrors or your dining room wall. A wall done up in semi precious natural stones catches daylight perfectly and with a backlit solution, it becomes a luminescent source to light for a quaint evening. It is a very elegant solution for beautifying any residential or commercial setting.

Semi-precious stone tiles are available in a multitude of colours, tones and breathtaking natural patterns all adding aesthetic value to the ambience.
